Item 1. INTRODUCTION

Axiom Capital Management, Inc. (“Axiom”, “We” or “Us”) is registered with the Securities & Exchange Commission as a broker-dealer that provides brokerage accounts and services. Axiom is a member of FINRA, SPIC and the NFA. We are engaged as an introducing broker-dealer, using the services of a clearing agent (also a broker-dealer) to execute trades and perform all the services expected from a broker-dealer, such as preparing and delivering retail investor confirmations and monthly statements. Brokerage services and investment advisory services have differing fee structures, it is important for retail investors to understand the differences. Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at: www.investor.gov/CRS which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing..

Item 2. WHAT INVESTMENT SERVICES AND ADVICE CAN YOU PROVIDE ME?

The brokerage services we provide include buying and selling securities and recommending investments to retail investors. When we transact for retail investors Axiom will earn/charge a commission. The assets for which we transact may be stocks, bonds, options, treasuries, corporate debt, municipal debt, mutual funds, secondary offerings and new issues/IPO’s which are publicly traded on an exchange. We also raise capital for private companies through the private placement of securities. When a retail investor purchases a private placement Axiom receives a placement fee paid by the issuer, but is a portion of the amount invested.

We do not currently have any minimum account size, minimum investment, or other requirements in order to open a brokerage account.

We can offer you additional services to assist you in developing and executing your investment strategy and monitoring the performance of your account. We are not required to monitor your portfolio or investments on an ongoing basis unless agreed to in advance.

Questions to consider asking a broker and conversation starters

- Given my financial situation, should I choose a brokerage service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your license, education and other qualifications?
- What do these qualifications mean?
- Does Axiom or the broker monitor retail accounts? How often?
- Is investment advice on limited investments or the market/economy as a whole? If limited how?
- What are the requirements for opening or maintaining an account?

Item 3. FEES, COSTS, CONFLICTS AND STANDARD OF CONDUCT

3A. What fees will I pay?

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

- The fee you pay is based on the specific transaction and not the value of your account. Each transaction can include a commission up to 4.75% of the cost of the transaction.
- With stocks or exchange traded funds, the fee is usually a separate commission. With other investments, such as bonds, this fee may be part of the price you pay for the investment (called a mark-up or mark-down). With mutual funds, a fee typically called a load reduces the value of your initial investment. Mutual funds also charge an annual management fee which vary depending on the fund. With certain investments such as variable annuities, you may have to pay fees such as surrender charges to sell the investment, reducing the value of your investment.
- In addition to commissions, we may charge you other fees such as custodial fees (generally for retirement accounts), account maintenance fees and account inactivity fees.

Question to consider asking a broker and conversation starter

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs and how much will be invested for me?

3B. What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

- When we provide you with a recommendation, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:
 - As a retail investor you would be charged more when there are more trades in your account and the firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage a retail investor to trade often.
 - Some mutual funds provide additional fees to broker dealers on an annual basis and the firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage a retail investor to purchase these types of mutual funds.
 - Axiom's clearing agent may also share a portion of interest earned from a retail investor's credit and debit balances, and the firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage a retail investor to keep high credit and/or debit balances.

Question to consider asking a broker and conversation starter

How might your conflicts of interest affect me and how will you address them?

3C. How do your financial professionals make money?

Financial professionals get paid fees and commissions when clients buy, sell and hold investment like stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other types of investments. In addition to commissions, the firm may be compensated in other ways such as a portion of the interest generated from client credit and debit balances, annual mutual fund fees, and other service fees that may be charged to retail customers.

Some conflicts of interest such as the ones mentioned in section 3B above are inherent in the Firm's business model. Simply put brokerage firms and financial professionals have an incentive to maximize compensation, whatever their compensation structure, and that may not always result in recommendations that are in an investors' best interests.
